

The Tirail on mountain bike

Abriès-Ristolas

Bourdon (Benjamin Musella - PNR Queyras)

Fast, beautiful and efficient, an alternative to the Bertins and perfect for tight schedules.

An easy climb, steady with nice views over the valleys of the Guil and Malrif to quickly reach a thrilling descent on a single track.

The Great Green Bush-Cricket (B)

Like all katydids, the Great Green Bush-Cricket has long and thin antennae. They can reach up to 3 times the size of the body. In contrast, short-horned grasshoppers have short and articulated antennae. The Great Green Bush-Cricket likes open areas, meadows, grasslands, bushes ... Sometimes eating plants, it feeds primarily on other insects, caterpillars and larvae, which makes it very useful for gardeners!
